Her life was in danger as was the lives of her unborn children. In seeking this Nai took the unborn twins and placed them in a Soul stone. Karyn did not survive the ordeal and when she was close to death Nai gifted Karyn with immortality. Thus she became a free spirit. In the mean time, Nai hid the Soul stone that contained the unborn twins and the location was not known for 200 human years.

A Demon Lord was seeking to increase his powers of evil and began training. Something was blocking his abilities and he learned that it was the Soul Stone that contained the twins. Thus he sought to locate the stone and destroy it.

King Khyl'Dran was told of this by Tavari an Elven Goddess of Light. The King alerted Nai and the location of the Stone was told to the King so he could assure the Demon God would not harm the stone.

The King knowing Molly loved the Elven Kingdom also alerted Molly of this. The Demon God Pestilence found that Molly knew of the location of the stone and sought to extract this information from her. A hunt began in a dire event Molly had to remove the stone from its location and seek to outrun the Demon God. Seeing that she could not Molly swallowed the stone. The Demon God caught her and took her to Lord Smogg, a known surgeon, to have the stone cut from Molly. When Lord Smogg attempted to do this the Soul Stone shattered and Molly became pregnant with the twins.

Upon the birth of the twins the Goodness that flowed from them sent the Demon Lord out of the lands of Britannia. His entrance back in the lands was blocked for many years till just recently he was able to find a means in which to once again return.

The full effects of the twins spending 200 years in the Soul Stone are yet unknown.

The Elven Gods gifted the twins. Isilmea was given the gift of the Heavens of Light Thus the Gods named her Isilmea, which means in Elven Light of the Moon.
